

The First Amendment protects the rights of the public to be heard by the public.

If corporations are allowed to monopolize the media market, they would have the ability to censor or out-shout dissenting voices. This ability is unconstitutional, and should be prevented for the sake of our basic democratic rights.

Thank you,